Project Name: City of Wisconsin Dells
Aquatic/Recreation Facility Programing Study

Project Scope:
The City of Wisconsin Dells is leading the development of a proposed Recreational Facility to be located in the City of Wisconsin Dells. Initial project planning and programing is needed to fully consider the desired facility amenities and the associated "ballpark" project costs. One goal of this initial planning effort is to form a consensus of project scope with the varied stakeholder entities involved with the project.

The general nature of the new recreational facility is as follows:

1. Aquatic Facilities
    a. Indoor Aquatics

8. The project budget is yet to be determined.

The proposed scope of services is:
The following scope is listed in a proposed sequential order that depicts the expected consensus forming process. The idea is to allow individual stakeholder input and then ultimate group decision making. Accordingly this process would start with individual stakeholder meetings, then specific topical meetings that may gather multiple stakeholders and then final meeting(s) to include all stakeholders and agree to a final program statement (with and associated global project budget).

1. Initial City Kick-Off Meeting
    a. Meet with City only to review and refine the methodology of the programing study.
    b. Revisit project goals and challenges.
    c. Identify the different specific entities (stakeholders) involved in the project.
    d. Review varied possible approaches to the separate Economic and Operational Feasibility Study based on MSA research. This feasibility study will be performed by others and the effort may parallel the programing study.

2. Economic and Operational Feasibility Study Coordination
    a. MSA is aware of several feasibility consults that can perform this sort of specialized demographic and operational analysis.
    b. Assist the City to consider the nature of the services.
    c. Assist the City to obtain proposals for the work.
    d. Coordinate with the feasibility consultant in regard to the proposed nature and projected cost for the new facility through-out the programing process.

3. Individual Stakeholder Meetings
    a. In order to establish an open communication with involved individual stakeholder entities, a series of separate meetings are proposed with MSA, one City representative and a group of individuals that each stakeholder entity chooses to participate.
    b. Share collective communications with the stakeholders to convey the framework, nature and goals of the process we are initiating and the schedule a meeting with each.
    c. Organize and facilitate one meeting with each stakeholder entity to discuss their individual goals, objectives and projected needs for the facility.
    d. Review and identify projected programmatic and space requirements desired.
    e. Review that entities expected general participation in the initial and ongoing support of the project.
    f. Beyond the City, there is assumed to be up to 4 other stakeholders to engage in these individual meetings.
    g. Summarize the meeting dialogue with meeting minutes.

4. DRAFT Space Needs Assessment:
    a. Create a space by space summary of space needs with the approximate room size and feature.
    b. Identify the functional relationships between various areas.
    c. Prepare Space Needs Program to indicate the range of facility needs.
    d. Review DRAFT Space Needs Assessment with City
    e. Revise the DRAFT Space Needs Assessment.

5. Aquatics Review Meeting:
    a. Have a single meeting with entities desiring specific input to the aquatics portions of the facility. The goal is to gain technical input and feedback from an Aquatics planning professional.
    b. This meeting shall be Aquatics Consultant led.

c. Present examples of similar facilities and review the potential amenities range and general cost implication each.
d. Facilitate group discussion regarding the desired aquatic features and amenities.
e. The results of this meeting will be to develop a specific aquatics facilities program. This may include a range of scalable options to allow for further fiscal considerations.

   c. Develop a Milestone Project Schedule.
   d. Determine the approximate site acreage needed.
   e. Review with City & refine.
   f. Share Draft with the stakeholders.

8. Final Group Meeting:
   a. Have a single meeting/workshop to discuss the findings of Space needs Assessment with City and stakeholders.
